Angie Mendenhall is Of Counsel in Ice Miller's Real Estate, Environmental & Energy Law (REEL) Group, assisting clients with complex commercial and multi-family property transactions.

Prior to joining Ice Miller, Angie served as general counsel to an Indianapolis-based affordable and student housing developer and has also served as counsel to a large commercial REIT and a developer of healthcare properties. In these roles, she gained experience reviewing, drafting, and negotiating documents and agreements related to the acquisition, disposition, and leasing of retail, healthcare, and multi-family projects. She assisted clients across all phases of such projects, from initial negotiation of transactions through closings and lease occupancies.

Angie received her Bachelor of Urban Planning and Development from Ball State University in 2005 and earned her juris doctor from Indiana University Robert H. McKinney School of Law in 2010. Prior to joining law school, she worked in government affairs for a Central Indiana trade association for builders.
