Rayna Huddleston, a Municipal Finance paralegal, has 10 years of experience in Public Finance law working with complex transactions. She is known for her strong organizational skills, client service, and positive attitude. With a proven track record of working on tax-exempt financings for multifamily housing facilities and large-scale utility projects, she has responsibilities ranging from drafting documents to compiling closing transcripts. Rayna coordinates closing activities and the logistics of transactions, often under tight timelines and immense pressure.

In addition to those duties, Rayna also reviews, drafts, and files UCC statements. A recent highlight of Rayna's paralegal career was her behind the scenes involvement in cite and reference checking the National Association of Bond Lawyers' Model Bond Opinion Report update, the first in 20 years.
