Robin Beck is member of the firm's Government Affairs & Regulatory Law Group, where she serves as a Government Affairs Compliance Specialist. With more than 30 years of experience at Ice Miller, she works closely with attorneys and clients to guide their employees and contracted lobbyists through the myriad of lobbying disclosure requirements. In addition, Robin has experience with political action committees compliance at the federal and state levels.

In an ever-changing compliance environment, this is a critical area for clients when it comes to federal, state and local legislative and executive related filings. Robin stays engaged on compliance related issues and election laws. Her relationships with state officials and reputation help clients and lobbyists stay compliant with integrity and the highest ethical standards.

Robin lives in Danville with her husband and their two sons. She enjoys volunteering at her sons' schools and is their number one fan on the sidelines when they're playing soccer, basketball and baseball. Robin also volunteers for the March of Dimes.
